Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Justice Policy

Free for Life International (FFLI) is committed to being a champion for promoting justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion in all aspects of our work - it is at the core of who we are. These values are central to both our mission and our impact. We believe that a wide array of perspectives allows our organization to be more effective. Our goal is to create an environment that is inclusive, respectful, equitable, and survivor-focused.

FFLI is dedicated to achieving greater equity and inclusion through embracing differences in race, ethnicity, national origin, citizenship, age, faith tradition, sexual orientation, gender identity, ability or disability in order to diminish historic barriers and disadvantages and reduce bias. This commitment holds true for not only our staff and leadership, but for all individuals we serve, in order to elevate all values, voices and experiences.

Our commitment to encouraging equity via support and empowerment is key toward working toward the justice of dismantling systems that have historically marginalized certain groups. FFLI is committed to the lifelong learning that is required for effective diversity and inclusion work.
